MIGHTY COAT SALE

Fine Coats and Wraps Worth Up to $85 for $45!

A Real Sensation in Coat Selling, Offering a Collection of 600 Plain, Embroidered or Gorgeously Fur-Trimmed Coats and Wraps, Comprising Special Underpriced Purchases and Models Greatly Reduced From Stock, at Some of the Greatest Savings of the Season

In the lot there is not just merely a handful of Coats that would regularly sell at the above Note: prices. There are almost as many worth from $60 to $85 as there are from $50 to $55.

These are Coats and Wraps that reach a high plane of perfection in every respect. Firstly, they were all bought from makers of high repute. Secondly, the quality of materials and fur trimmings had to be above reproach. Thirdly, each and every one was selected for some distinctive fashion feature. As for the styles, each individual type is represented in numerous variations. Indeed, so comprehensive a style selection may not be presented again this season. Of one thing we are sure, however, that only through the most fortunate circumstances will we be able to duplicate the values.

The Market Price

OOK on the market page, and you will see the price quotation on staple commodities, on cotton, wheat, metals, bonds, etc.-and there is only one quotation-the selling price.

There is a standard of value for such commodities, governed by supply and demand; but there is no standard of value for a manufactured article, and it bears all sorts of prices-first, the manufacturer's; and last, the retailer's.

The price the consumer pays indicates his acceptance of that valuation. To claim a greater value is merely expressing an opinion, frequently biased and unfounded.

We do not quote comparative prices in our advertising, even when merchandise is reduced. We accept fluctuations as a matter of course, just as you find them on the market page-and advertise only the selling price.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 9.—The Laclede Gas Light Co. of St. Louis today asked the Missouri Public Service Commission to place a per-manent valuation on its property and ne the present gas rates in t. Louis while the valuation is be-

Daniel G. Taylor, filed a petiion protesting against the tentative aluation of $30,000,000 fixed by the mmission and declared that the production valuation of the comany's property is approximately that it will start a hearing here Monday to determine the new gas ates for St. Louis.

Contention As to Profits. In its petition the Laclede de-clared that during the period from January 1, 1919, to July 31, 1922, the profits never have been in excess of 4.8 per cent of the reproduction ost of the plant.

The company also objected to the Commissioner's order allowing an annual depreciation fund of only $400,000. It declared this was entirely too low and that it is entitled to a depreciation of at least 1.5 per cent of the reproduction valuation of the property.

Earnings Shown by Audit. An audit of the company's books by accountants of the commission. 1922, disclosed an earning at the rate of 10.35 per cent on a tentative valuation of $27,000,000 for the npany's property used in its gas business. The other $3,000,000 ten tative valuation is on the Laclede's lectrical department.

INTERNATIONAL COURT TO FND WAR ADVOCATED

Raymond Robins, Former Relief Leader in Russia, Addresses Members of Town Club Here.

Raymond Robins of Chicago, noted conomist and commander of the Red Cross Mission to Russia in 1917-18, addressed members of the Town Club last night on the possibility of ending war through establishment of an international court.

utlaw war. The heart of the matgreat war must be fought by conulations to the true aspects of armed flict and thus make a kevy upon ilians so unpopular that no nation ould dare to engage in hostilities. Robins began by painting a pic-re of the carnage which will result m the next world war. He asted that engines of destruction have been so perfected that no rmy could long hold itself on the arth against them.
"Great wars of the future," said

Robins, "will be great suicides for the nations who engage in them." The speaker said that an intensive mpaign of enlightenment would be cessary before nations realize that war is not a path to glory and power and national greatness." Having spread the gospel of peace, Robins said the next step would be to convince politicians that an internaional court is feasible.

"The theory of conference as alone effective to prevent war has been entirely exploded," Robins aserted. "The attempt to regulate the legalized savagery known as war nust always be an utter failure. War must be outlawed and made a rime punishable under the internadonal code."

Robins expressed the belief that z world tribunal possessed of affirmative jurisdiction in international disutes would be capable of preservas

Program by Doris Cardwell, aniste, and Frances Boester, orange. Addresses by Wm. S. Culbertson, vice-chairman U. S. Tariff Commission, and S. E. MacMil-lan, manager St. Louis Symphony

A song recital by two St. Louis voralists broadcast by Station K S D ast night elicited many compliments from listeners-in and a great number of protests because the program was short. Two minutes less than an hour was occupied by the singers in the entire program, and as the songs were extremely well chosen and beautifully presented, it no cause of wonder the audience vanted more.

The singers were Miss Agnes Galn, soprano, and E. H. Baker, tenor sted by Miss Caroline

One of the principals in the Woodward stock company now play-ing at the Garrick Theater will take part in the program this evening as-sisting Herbert Berger and his orchestra in the evening's concert. He is Mack Linn, comedian, who will sing a number of popular songs. He has chosen the jazz songs and the popular melodies, and will be accompanied by his sister, Miss Anna Linn. Herbert Berger will conduct his orchestra himself and also will play several piano solos. The program is expected to be unusually ineresting.

FORMER AUSTRIAN ARCHDUCHESS HELD ON SMUGGLING CHARGE

Police Allege Marie Immaculata Attempted to Take Royal Treasures Out of Country. Associated Press.

VIENNA, Nov. 9 .- Former Archluchess Marie Immaculata, one of the proscribed Hapsburgs, is being detained by the police on a charge of attempting to smuggle out of the country treasures from the family palace. It is alleged she entered Austria with a forged passport, took up lodgings in an obscure quarter of the city, and succeeded in securing and transporting to the railroad station 14 cases containing pictures and other valuables.

The Arbeiter Zeitung charges that a fortnight ago former Archduke Friederich smuggled from the Vien-na palace of Hungary 80 cases of valuables, including precious metals and gold coin, to the value of $33,-

IN MADISON COUNTY, ILL.

Republicans Have Held Every County Office There for Past Four Years.

Three Democrats have been elected to county offices in Madison County Ill., where Republicans have held every office during the past four years, if official canvasses do not change the complete but unofficial returns compiled at Edwardsville. The three apparently successful Democratic county candidates are: Edward Deimling, a Troy butcher, who defeated Cal. Streeper, an Alton undertaker, by 5398 plurality; Wilbur Trares, a young Edwardsville lawyer, defeated Judge J. E. Hillskoetter, who has been County Judge for 16 years, by 2333, and Prof. F. M. Scott of Collinsville has a mar-gin of 67 votes on Prof. H. T. Mc-Crea of Alten, the present County Superintendent of Schools.

Clerk's Margin 49. In addition, County Clerk Calvin J. Blattner, running for the third time, has but 49 plurality over Joseph Hotz, his Democratic opponent.

Joseph G. Bardill of Highland, Republican State Senator for the past six terms, is displaced by Herbert Ciberson, an Alton traveling salesman. Giberson carried Madison County by 1756, and Bardill carried Bond County by 484, these two comprising the Forty-seventh Senatorial District. In this same district the present members of the lower house, Norman G. Flagg, Moro, and Christ. H. Rethmeler, Edwardsville, both Republicans, and Ferdinand A. Garesche, Madison, Democrat, are re-

Testamentary dispositions are of very ancient origin. Even in Biblical periods the statement is found in Genesis that Jacob gave to Joseph a portion above his brethren.

The will as we know it comes from the English law. The document found at Kahun, written on papyrus, witnessed by two scribes, is curiously modern in form. It illustrates the continuity of legal methods down through the ages. Yet, ancient as is the practice of will-writing, it is lamentable that while all men may make wills, and should do so, all men have not done so. With the great ambition of mankind to gather sufficient property to keep

LAMBERT OPPOSES CITY BOND ISSUE

Former Councilman Believes Expense of Proposals Would Affect Business.

Albert Bond Lambert, president of he Lambert Pharmacal Co., and former member of the City Council, has written a letter to the president and members of the Board of Aldermen, opposing the proposed municipal bond issue, upon the details of which public hearings recently were

He does not object to the individual proposals, most of which he thinks meritorious. His objection is to the cost of the whole, which he states at $86,000,000, and which he says would seriously affect the cost of living and business. He will object to such an undertaking, he says until the city extends its limits, and antil the railroads are forced to abolish the bridge arbitrary.

He says the bond issue proposals do not meet the city's most vital needs, which are a free railroad outet, increased terminal facilities and annexation of suburban territory. He cites statements made in connection with the recent report on terminals. upon the need for traffic outlet and increased terminals. The statement that "it takes three days to get a car of freight across the river" is taken as pointing to the chief need.

Text of Letter. Lambert writes as follows: "St. Louis has a national reputation for its public schools, parks, play grounds, residences and outoor amusements, and is rated a good city to live in; on the other and, it is notorious for its terminal facilities especially freight. Very few individuals or families move to a ity for the mere purpose of living. You will find in 99 cases out of 100 that business or occupation is the cause. Our increase of 12 % per cent in population is no more than a natural native growth, consequently rivic improvements should progress n parallel lines, or if anything. ousiness facilities should receive first consideration "The cities making the greatest progress are those that have inreased their railroad terminals, hereby opening up the arteries for mmerce. Increase your volume of usiness and prosperity follows-a natural consequence productive o etter living conditions Pointing to the need for annexa-ion of suburban territory. Lambert argues that the bond issue, so greaton in St. Louis County to annexation measures. He quotes A. E. L. jardner, former State Senator, as making a statement to the effect that any residents of the county had oved there from the city to escape avor annexation. "What will be the esult when we again increase ou xes?" Lambert asks.

Comparison With Other Cities. Lambert says that comparison he bonded indebtedness of St. Loui with the higher bonded indebted ess of most other cities is meaningless as the other cities are sea o bring in direct returns in trade. Ar exception is Cincinnati, which has the highest bonded debt per capita and which has a location similar to at of St. Louis. At the same time Lambert says. Cincinnati shows ow rate of increase in population. The low debt and rapid population ncrease of Kansas City are men ioned in contrast. He also argues that it is compara ively useless to attempt relief of traffic congestion and rapid transion surface streets, when a subway 18 vitally needed.

"If the bond issue as now outlined is submitted to the voters." Lam-bert writes, "the one fact to defeat will be the cost. I have heard public spirited citizens remark that the way to defeat the bond issue is to keep on adding costs, and that already the bond issue is top-heavy.

"We must open and widen our eastern gateway, and extend our city limits to the west, without which real expansion is impossible. Once this is done, business will likewise expand, with a resulting benefit in creased population-then the bond sue to meet the conditions of a new St. Louis.'

Minnesota Democrats, Republicans and Socialists Swallowed and Voted for Shipstead.

KELLOGG VOTED FOR SEATING OF NEWBERRY

Mrs, Oleson's Attack on This Issue Helped Farmer-Labor Candidate, Who Appealed to Farmers.

the Post-Dispatch

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 8 .- Frank B. Kellegg, a faithful Harding Senator of conservative instincts, has been defeated for re-election by Dr. Henrik Shipstead, a practicing dentist of Minneapolis, carrying the banner of the Farmer-Labor party on which was emblazoned Socialistic doctrine, isms of unrest, the La Fol-lette program in toto and other stray shoots of economic radicalism that have sprouted in the uneasy

The result should not be taken too seriously, as Minnesota's indorsement of this political mixture. Rather, the State was willing to swallow anything that might have been tacked on to the Shipstead banner, so strong was its desire to swat what its junior Senator, by his recrd, presented as the alternative Shinstead carried his hanner a trifle reluctantly and more or less silently He referred little to its vagaries, asserting not so much his own platform, but ripping up that upon which his opponent made his stand. Ticketed as he was, Shipstead held the State's radical vote, which is not by votes of the rank and file of the Republican party, who, washing their hands of all radicalism, were willing to put their votes in the same oox with those of radicalism, so strong was their displeasure with th national record of their party

Kellogg's Record Attacked. Shipstead, sealing his lips on the munal precepts of Socialism for which he was presumed to stand, fig-sawed to bits Kellogg's plank defending his vote on the Eschcummins transportation act. On election day. Minnesota farmers were suffering for lack of cars in which to ship their grain. Shipstead had found their ears receptive to the idea that their plight had its wirth in the transportation act, for which Senator Kellogg had voted.

It was only a short step to make hem credulous also that Senator Kellogg, having been in private life he legal representative of large of including the United States Steel Corporation, was reprenting these interests and not those explain his vote for the seating Senator Newberry. It was an pleasant issue for Kellogg and wehn he attempted to answer, he was not convincing. Mrs. Oleson's insistent speech on Newherryism did not get many votes for her, but it did bring determination not to vote for Kellogg and sent many ballots into the Shipstead total. Shipstead a Mixer.

logg was reluctant to take the stump Many years ago, he gained a certain place in the affections of the people as the "trust-buster" who won the Government case against the Northern Securities Co. But in this role he was a wraith vaguely discernible and never appearing in clear outline as a champion of the people there-

His first election was possible because of this ephemeral recollection of him and the absence of anything that would destroy it. He proved a feeble opponent to Shipstead, the mixer.

La Follette in Campaign. Some politicians are of the opin-ion that Senator La Follette furnished the final push that carried Shipstead over. The Wisconsin Senator, abandoning his own campaign, crossed into Minnesota in the closing week and appeared on platforms with Shipstead, denouncing the ultra-conservatism for which the Harding administration and Kellogg stood in the minds of the independent voter. Newspapers in the larger Minnesota cities said that La Follette was seeking to annex Minnesota to Wis-consin and derided him until in one city he was refused permission for use of a hall in which to speak. This brought a sharp letter of inquiry from the Governor of Wisconsin to the Governor of Minnesota, who promptly repudiated the action La Follette put his own politics squarely up to the Minnesota voters and Shipstead added: "I stand for that." Dr. Shipstead attributes "the splendid victory" to the "untiring efforts of the common people to re-store Minnesota to true American principles of government. The glory of victory belongs to them. I pledge the best there is in me to their service. The Government belongs to the people. My election shows a desire on their part to regain control of it, that they may use it for the purpose for which it was wanted."

It is interesting to recall at this time that in 1918, Dr. Shipstead. then a resident of Glenwood. Minn. contested the Republican nomina-tion with Representative Volstead who defeated him. The Republican State chairman, in commenting on Shipstead's present success, ascribes it in part, to the support of the interests seeking modification of the Volstead act. Volstead Defeated Defeat of two of Minnesota's Congressmen is shown today-A. J. Volstead in the Seventh and Halvor Steenerson in the Ninth. The former was defeated by the Rev. O. J. Kvale, Independent, and the latter by Knud Wefald, Farmer-Labor candidate. The Rev. Mr. Kvale is drier than Volstead.

Gov. J. A. O. Preus, Republican, has a lead of more than 14,000 votes over Magnus Johnson, Farmer-Labor candidate, with two-thirds of the state in.

Credits Result to Farmers and Labor. y the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Characteriz-ng the result of Tuesday's election as a "revolt against landed aristoc-racy," Benjamin C. Marsh of Washington; managing director of the Farmers' National Council, declared h re today that "farmers are joining with labor to restore the Government to the people and won't stop till they have done this." Marsh has been campaigning in 18 states from Michigan to the Western coast since May for candida indorsed by the council.

The defeat of scores of reaction ary Senators and Congressmen, and the substitution of Progressives, is largely due to the fury of the farmers of the West, Northwest and Southwest," he said, "over the criminal conspiracy of deflation carried out by the Federal Reserve Board at the behest of profiteers who made $22,000,000,000 net profit out of the war, or a million dollars net profit for every three boys who lost their lives during the war.

"In 1920 about 38 per cent or the farmers were tenants; by 1930 probably half will be tenants."

North Dakota Democrat Leads in Senate Race; Frazier Claims Election. By the Associated Press.

FARGO, N. D., Nov. 9 .- With the election of Lynn J. Frazier, recalled Non-Partisan League Governor of North Dakota, to the United States Senate, claimed by his supporters, J. F. T. O'Connor, Democrat, his op ponent, has a lead of about 7000 votes today. O'Connor has held a good lead in returns reported from the cities and the eastern part of the State, but this dropped sharply from 15,000 yesterday to 7000 last night. On the basis of this, and with reports coming in from league strong-holds in the western sections of North Dakota, supporters asserted Frazier had been chosen for the Sen-

Weak kidneys. Health, the most precious gift in life, should be carefully watched by everyone. Millions of people today are guarding their health and keeping their system regulated by using Nature's great Herb Tonic—Bulgarian Blood Tea.

The rich juices brewed from the roots, barks, lenves, herbs, plants and flowers of Bulgarian Herb Tea aid Nature to remove vicious body por sons that are mainly responsible for ill health. Bulgarian Herb Tea is recommended by many physicians as a reliable family medicine and druggists everywhere endorse it as a pure healthful laxative tonic.

At the opening of court today s counter affidavit was filed by State's Attorney Duty, asserting that the selection of the jury by special deputies was with the knowledge and apng the other allegations.

The arguments for the defense by Attorneys Stone and A. C. Lewis stressed the allegation that the list of special grand jurors was improp-erly drawn and that several attoreys were present in the grand jury

Lewis declared that the specia grand jurors were hand-picked by nebody interested in the prosecu ion. He pointed out that not only rere the special deputies not authorized but that they were deprived of discretion in that they were given names from a prepared list. Judge Hartwell, without hearing arument on behalf of the State, held that the special deputies were properly appointed and sworn by the Sheriff and acted properly as his agents, and that there was nothing rregular in the manner in which the ury was selected and called.

Motion to Quash Overruled. In respect to the point that the were numerous lawyers in the grand jury rooms the Judge said this was justified by the amount of work to be done and there was no showing of wrong done by their presence, the only allegation being that the presice of numerous attorneys tended to overawe the jury. He overruled, on both grounds, the motion to

After a conference with counsel Judge Hartwell announced that alterations were necessary in the arrangement of the court room to acilitate the handling of the case and adjourned court to admit these

It was evident at the close of the rst day's proceedings that if a jury is to be obtained with anything like expedition it will not be because veniremen lack excuses or hesitate

All Wanted to Get Off. When, just before adjournment, udge Hartwell called for the first 30 men on the panel, 21 of them reponded, and when he asked all who had excuses to raise their hands, it was almost unanimous. Elimination did not noticeably diminish the number, which caused the Judge to intimate that the few who had not held up their hands at first, were slipping them up when he wasn't looking. All the stock excuses were presented and there were some which did credit to ingenuity of the men offering them. There was the man who had lately become the father of twins, and although he was not very clear as to why that should exempt him, the Judge let him off, and one was building a house for his neighbor who had torn down the old one and was camping outdoors pending completion of the new. He was told to go on back and finish the job. Frank Nicholson had an orchard which needed attention and the State had drafted all the Nichoison man-power by summoning him and his son and his father; the Agent of Union Starch Co., in Eden burgh Negotiating for Plant Idle Since Best-Clymer Failure.

Representatives of the Union Starch Co. of Edenburg, Ind., are negotiating today with officers of the Mercantile Trust Co. for the purchase of the corn refining plant in Granite City, which was acquired by the trust company from the bankrupt Best-Clymer Manufacturing Co

An officer of the bank announced that the deal probably would be effected. When the Mercantile Trust Co. took over the plant it was accepted at $1,000,000 in the clearing up of the Best-Clymer concern's af-

The Best Clymer Manufacturing Co. went into bankruptcy following the failure of the Temptor Corn and Fruit Products Co., with which it was associated. Since then the Grante City plant, which had been man ufacturing corn syrup, has been idle.

HUNTER'S SHOTS HIT WOMAN

Mrs. Cora E. Butts, 32 years old. ving on the Gibson road just outside the city limits at Riverview Drive, was slightly wounded yesterday when birdshot from a hunter's gun struck her home, some of the shot evidently coming in through a window, and lodging in her back.

Mrs. Butts told policemen her hus-band had warned the hunters, two white men carrying shotguns and a negro with two dogs and a club, against shooting near the home and said the hunters had threatened to shoot him if he did not leave them alone. A short time later one of the men shooting at a rabbit fired close to the house causing the injuries to Mrs. Butts. The men disappeared from the neighborhood immediately.

JUDGE OVERRULES MOTION TO QUASH IN HERRIN TRIAL

Judge Swamped With Excuses. After court adjourned veniremen among the 100 called to supplement the regular panel, made a rush for the beach and hemmed the Judge in and kept him listening to excuse for half an hour.

In permitting the State to nolle pros as to 41 of the 46 defendants in the present case, Judge Hartwell said he doubted where, with the large number of peremptory challenges in a trial of 46 persons, it would be possible to get a jury. He had refused the prosecution request State trials, because that would be interminable and had set first the case with the largest number of defendants, but found himself compelled to sanction reversion to the trial of a few as offering the best prospect of expedition. Besides, the prosecution had a right to nolle pros as to part of the defendants and he disallowed the contention of the defense that the persons who were retry at this time, were Otis Clark, Bert Grace, Peter Hiller and Leva Mann. They are members of the group of eight who are held without bond. They are alleged to have par-ticipated actively in killings. The fifth, Joseph Carnagi, is out on bon1, and it is understood that the murder charge against him is tech-nical, based upon his participation in an alleged act which resulted in

The reason for including one to whom a lesser degree of actual guilt is imputed is to ascertain the attitude of a jury toward this class of defendants as a guide in dealing with the others in the later trials. It is known that most of the indicted men are in this classification, the evidence of active participation in the actual killings centering on a comparative few. An attempt of Attorney Kerr for the defense to bring out who employs assistant counsel for the pros-ecution and what compensation is to be given was frustrated by Judge Hartwell, who ruled that objection fo privately employed counsel could not be allowed except on the ground that such counsel so employed gave the State such an overwhelming preponderance of legal talent as to militate against the defendants having a fair trial. Kerr was unwilling to admit such preponderance and the point was not pressed further.

Defendants All in Good Humor. There was nothing in the atmos phere at the first day's proceedings or the demeanor of the defendants to indicate an appreciation of the gravity of the case. The 46 defendants were all in good humor when they arrived and were further heartened by the array of legal talent re-tained by the United Mine Workers and the presence and active partici-pation of State President Frank Far-

The courtroom was filled with their relatives and friends and dur-ing the intermissions the visiting was general until Judge Hartwell found it necessary to indicate what he called the receptions. When court adjourned at noon, the eight men who were held without bond, and had been brought in from jail during the session, were surrounded and held an animated levee. At the afternoon adjournment the defense atants who are not prisoners to a conference in the grand jury room, from which came laughter and handclap-

To the Biltor of the Post-Dispatch. D OOR Mr. John D. Cross seems terribly worried because a certain local theater would pay only $2 for the services of a "sandwich man" for a few hours each for probably a week. There is no basis for a complaint. Any dumbbell can tramp our streets, wearing a flashy uniform, and, unless you dine at the Statler you can at least eat on $2 per day. If $2 per day for a "sandwich man" is prorated for the amount of intelligence required to do the particular work, a janitor should make a good salary. Why don't you try janiting. Mr. Cross? A. P. Recently we tried to read a novel, after years of abstention from that one-time pleasing occupation. In the course of time we came to a crisis in the affairs of two gentlemen who agreed upon a duel. There was the usual ren-dezvous at dawn beside a wood. This does not mpress the man of the world as a reflection of life. In the old days of Bloody Island, for instance, when Senator Benton laid his dead out in rows and held his seat in the Senate, just as our Jamie does, by intimidation, there was a duel going on at any hour of the day, dawn or no dawn, wood or no wood. At any rate, we came to this duel. Just before the word was tiven our man was approached by one of his ponent's seconds, who feared the flint was ose in his pistol and made a pretense of adjusting it. Of course, this was treachery and man his life when his pistol failed to fire. Not every grown man is so hardboiled that he cannot enjoy a little imagery. There are, however, limits beyond which his cautious fancy refuses to journey. He cannot for in-stance, read the story of this duel without groaning inwardly and wishing to put all nov-elists to death. "What the hell?" he exclaims n the vernacular of business. "Would the duelst permit his opponent's second to adjust the flint upon his pistol? What were his own seconds doing?" Any sane man will ask these questions. He remains in the illusion of the story only so long as the novelist does not try to make game of his common sense. Then he lays the novel aside and resumes reading the market page. It is the opposite of make be-

. . . When the season closed at Glacier National Park the hotels were locked up and the stores made safe. Then when the wind came down rom the bleak region about Medicine Hat and the snow line crept down the continental range. there remained at each of those great woodland camps but a single watchman. One morning the watchman at Many Glacier found that something had more or less set things on their beam ends. One whole side of the glass wail looking out of the dining room upon the Grinnell Glacier was smashed. Rushing into the hotel the watchman was not long discovering that the place had been sacked by a grizzly bear. What remained of the dishes, the marmalades and the jams was not worth picking up. It seemed that having devastated the place the grizzly had expressed his resentment of the whole layout by hurling things through the glass wall. The wreckage would have filled three freight cars. The next night the watch man was waiting for his bearship and thrust a siug through his head as the marauder came lumbering down the hall. It was too much fun. and the bear could not stay away. He was having his revenge on civilization for the injury it has done him, and when did any of us ever get enough of that? At any rate, instead of being elected to office, he was duly skinned.

The reaction against prohibition has become so violent that a dry cannot hope to be elected to office in anything but a sheltered spot like one of the unworldly communities of Kansas. There were two unmistakable notes in the elec-tion of resterday. One was that the country does not want to be infested with moonshiners and bootleggers, and the other is that it does not want to be delivered into the hands of pred-atory wealth. This clamor will become by 1924 a tempest which will drive both drys and Republicans to their cyclone cellars.

All the Democrats have to do is to let the Republicans run the country awhile. After that the Democrats do not have to say what they would do. All they have to do is to let the people do the rest.

It is mighty hard to distodge Lodge, but they came within an ace of doing it Tuesday.

Puritans, Unhappy in Holland, Gladly Seized the Opportunity to Come to America on the Mayflower.

The Puritans Foresaw a Famine in Holland.

By HENDRIK VAN LOON. Author of "The Story of Mankind."

(Copyright, 1922.) HE Puritans were not happy in Holland. A contemporary Dutch playwright introduces an old-fashioned mother who is recommending different young girls to her son that he marry one and settle down happily forever after. She menns one particular maiden and the young man bursts forth: he is as narrow-minded as if she had lived all her life with the

This seemed to have been the feeling of most of the good cople of Leyden and Amsterdam, the two cities where the uritans lived. They were not exactly cheerful neighbors. They ere hard working. They were honest. They must have been ite unhappy for they landed in Holland during a regular boom period and there were no houses for these sudden guests who were forced to live in squalid little streets just as the people f present-day New York, who can not find room on Riverside ve, are obliged to go and live in Greenwich Village and other desirable parts of the great metropolis.

Another thing which made it hard for the Puritans to comte with their neighbors was their unwillingness to learn the lanage or adopt the customs of the country which had given them asylum. They were Englishmen and, although they had been riven away from their old homes by other Englishmen, they held eir old customs and their own speech superior to that of the le who sheltered them and were terribly upset when their, ittle boys and girls came home and talked the language which hey had picked up from the other kids with whom they had been ing in the streets. And when a daughter forgot herself so far s to marry a Hollander or a son happened to fall in love with a h girl then there was a great ado and harsh' words for the ty child and all this did not lead to happiness.

When the Puritans first settled in Holland, that country haped to be at peace with Spain. A truce of 12 years had been ncluded, suspending all fighting between the two countries n the European continent. This truce was fast coming to an end ad the country once more would be in the turmoils of war. It ecame clear that as a "happy home" Leyden might soon be again uncomfortable as it had been 30 years before when mice and ats formed the only diet of the populace for almost six months. he Puritans wrote to their friends at home and the friends at ae, who were getting along much better than before and now ated strong adherents among the directors of the American companies, arranged things in such a way that the Puritans ere offered transportation to the inevitable Virginia, that they the plant tobacco and enjoy liberty of conscience according to ir own taste and pleasure. Gladly the Puritans packed their mble satchels, crossed to England and took passage on two ips, the Mayflower and the Speedwell. But the Speedwell soon prang a leak and was forced to return to England. The Maylower than continued the voyage to Virginia alone.

pecial to the Post-Dispatch.

SPANGLER, Pa., Nov. 9.—"Negligence was the cause of the explosion and the investigation as to who was negligent will be under way tomornight by Chief Mine Inspector Seward Button of Harrisburg, who is at the head of the State investigation being made of the explosion at the Reilly Colliery Co.'s No. 1 mine here Monday, when 76 men were killed and 32 others injured.

Button stated he had been informed that Fire Boss Patrick Flannigan, most horribly burned of the dead men, had purposely set off mall pockets of firedamp, in order o keep the mine clear of gas and to keep the gas record of the mine from indicating it was a gas mine. Whether Flannigan had taken it upon himself to perform the hazardous risk, or whether a club had been held over his head compelling him to do it to keep his job, is a ques-tion that will be taken up in the nvestigation, Button said No Reports of Gas in Record. The gas record of the mine, Buton said, showed that not a trace of the deadly firedamp had been reported for the last two years.

"I went back two years and there isn't a single record there of gas." he said. "In fact, the Reilly No. 1 was classed as a nongaseous mine." Miners in this place stated that there had been four gas explosions ince the Reilly was opened in 1916. One of these was fatal to a miner.

GRAND JURY INQUIRY INTO DEATH OF MAN

Relatives Allege John Campanella Died After Beating by East St. Louis Detectives During "Third Degree."

POLICEMEN HAD SAID HE HANGED HIMSELF

He Was Held as Suspect After Charles Lemon Was Shot and Killed in Campanella's Saloon.

The St. Clair County grand jury. n session in Belleville, will begin an investigation temorrow of the circumstances surrounding the death of John Campanella, 38 years old, in a cell at police headquarters in East St. Louis on the night of March 25 last, while held on suspicion of being implicated in the mur-der of Charles Lemon, 55, who was shot and killed in Campanella's saloon at 2005 Missouri avenue March

When Campanella's body was dewed at the morgue a number of bruised places were found on the head and body, and an autopsy was performed by Dr. Downey L. Harris of St. Louis, who testified at the inquest that the bruises were sufficient to have caused death Alleged to Have Been Beaten.

It is alleged by relatives of Cam-panella, and others who have become interested in the case, that Campanella was severely beaten with a hose on the night of March 23 by detectives in administering the "third degree" in an effort to have him make a statement imp!! cating himself in the murder o Lemon. Campanella and his wife alleged that the murder of Lemon was committed by two men who had entered his living quarters in the saloon building, where Lemon in conversation with Mr. and Mrs. Campanella, and that Lemon ran into a bathroom when the strangers began flourishing a revolver. Campanella said he became alarmed and ran from the building and did not go back home. His wife supported that statement. Policemen Said He Hanged Himself. Members of the Police Depart ment, who were on duty the night Campanella died, said that he hanged himself by tying his shirt about his neck and fastening the sleeves to the bars of his cell near the ceiling.

Among the grand jury witnesses summoned are Mrs. Campanella and Municipal Commissioner Michael J. Whalen. The former said that while she was a prisoner in the wonien's department, across the hall from the detectives' room, she heard husband begging somebody not to kill him, and heard what she be-leved to be blows struck. Whalen aid that he saw Campanella in his ell and was told by him that he had been beaten by detectives in an offort to extort an admission of guilt from him, and that Campanela showed him where he had been struck and complained of great pain

—Makes Pipes Run Freely
—Saves Plumbers' Bills.

Here is a household hint that will save much plumbling trouble. When the kitchen sink, sewer drains, refrigerator drain, water closets or waste pipes show signs of clogging, dissolve two or three tablespoonfuls of Electric Powdered Lye in a little water and pour directly down the opening. Use Powdered Lye in a little water and pour directly down the opening. Use Powdered Lye, not solid. Use only enough water to thoroughly dissolve the lye. Repeat the process if necesary. Clogged pipes will usually open quickly and should, then be flushed thoroughly with hot water. The wise way is to pour the lye solution down all drain.

Testimony That Stanley Miller Was Locked Up in ing of Crime.

An alibi that Stanley Miller, alias reebersyzer, was at a funeral at the ime of the robbery of a Kroger store, failed to convince a jury in his trial in Judge Hogan's court yesterday, and its sealed verdict, opened today, provided a sentence of five ears in the penitentiary.

Miller was identified by the manager of the store, at 1429 Clinton treet, the butcher and another emloye, as the masked robber who ook $88 from the cash register and ocked them in the icebox, last June the hour of the robbery, 12:30 p. m., he was attending funeral services at 2011 North Fifteenth street. Two women and a man testified that he was to have been a pallbearer at the funeral, but that he was intoxicated and that the funeral proceeded with-out him. They declared, however, that they locked him in the house at the time of the departure of the funeral procession, 10 a. m., and that at 12:30 p. m., the hour of the robbery, when they returned, Miller still

WILLIAMSON ELECTION PLEASES FARRINGTON

Head of Illinois Mine Workers Views Results as Victory for Unions.

pecial to the Post-Dispatch.

MARION, Ill., Nov. 9.—President Frank Farrington of the Illinois Mine Workers gave out the following statement today:

"The results of the elections for county officials in Williamson County are of the deepest interest to those who have followed developments in this county since the so-called Herrin riots last June. The returns overwhelmingly vindicate my position in declaring that the Illinois Mine Workers would defend every miner ndicted for alleged participation in those riots.

"Despite the fact that Attorney-General Brundage, himself a Repub-lican, urged the citizens of Williamon to repudiate at the polls every Republican who could be suspected of union sympathies, the voters have elected every candidate supported by the union. In my judgment, the attitude of the mine workers in Williamson County is an example of what the attitude of the miners in the rest of the State would be if they were given an opportunity of expression. I am now more certain than ever that all the mine workers are in sympathy with my declaration.

Cites Thaxton's Victory. "It is significant that not only the iners but the business and professional elements voted for the miners' candidates, as is evidenced by the way in which Sheriff Melvin Thaxon ran ahead of his ticket. It was pon Sheriff Thatton that the chief attacks of the Illinois Chamber of commerce and the special gran ! fury were launched. Sheriff Thaxton received the remarkable majori ty of more than 5000 votes, while his running mates received no more than 3000 or 4000 majorities.

"As soon as it became evident that the Illinois Chamber of Commerce Attorney-General Brundage those who are attempting to use Herrin as a text for antiunionism were intent upon defeating the Republican candidates in Williamson Coun ty, the miners rallied to the suppor of these men. At enthusiastic mass meetings held throughout the coupy under the auspices of the Illinois Mine Workers, the issues in this campaign were made plain. Tuesday's returns indicate how readily hose issues were grasped by the intelligent citizens of Williamson Neither Intimidated Nor Fooled." "Despite the Attorney-General's Labor day assertion that Williamson County would arise to repudiate the tand taken in the Herrin cases by he Illinois Mine Workers, despite frantic eleventh-hour appeals issued in the form of circulars denying that the local Democratic ticket was being supported by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, the thinking citizens of Williamson were neither intimidated nor fooled. They have rendered their verdict at the polls in favor of a fair trial for every miner indicted in con-nection with the Herrin affair."

designs in Satins, Patents, Suedes,

Calf or Kid and smart combinations.

THE beautiful colors that appear in the sky after the sun has set, called the afterglow, come as a final touch to every perfect day.

There is the afterglow of the mouth, too. It is that delicious feeling of freshness which follows the use of Kolynos Dental Cream. It tells you that your mouth is really clean, with every tooth lustrous, white and fortified against the attacks of myriads of bacteria which cause unsightly discoloration and premature decay.

A Sound Tooth Cannot Thrive In An Unclean Mouth

It would be as unreasonable to expect a tender plant to thrive in unfavorable soil. Grit will give a temporary polish, but at the expense of the tooth structure itself. The film which holds acid-producing bacteria and forms tartar should be dissolved in the natural, cleanly Kolynos way-not scraped off by a process which destroys the enamel.

Try This Way

Use Kolynos-twice daily. Then examine the teeth closely. There will be no miniature scratches to give ready lodgment to bacteria-laden food particles. No in-between film to form breeding places for untold millions of germs. No sore gums to cause discomfort at tooth-brush time-or after.

A truly remarkable saving on authentic styles of known quality and excellence. Including Queen Quality.

Above all, there will be that comfortable, genial "afterglow" which will make you exclaim "How clean my mouth feels".

> We have on file in our New Haven laboratories personal applications from over 47,000 American Dentists and 74.000 American Physicians for Kolynos Dental Cream, to distribute among their patients.

Whatever dental preparation you have been using, you will find new comfort and new efficiency in Kolynos -tooth insurance in strictly scientific form.

Is she living or did she drown herself nine months ago, is Rev. E. C. E. Wheeler responsible for her disappearance, has she entered a convent under an assumed name, was she waylaid by a strange man as the preacher avers, and—

This story, with side lights that make it unique amongst human tragedies, is reviewed at length in the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine—next Sunday.

Breaking an agreement made six years ago to remain single until she was 30 years old and receive $100,000, pretty Josephine Kryl, daughter of the famous bandmaster, weds a young musician and now washes dishes. Is her happiness worth the financial sacrifice?

The Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine—next Sunday—gives an interesting account of the romance.

Wingate to Direct Attack Of Princeton Team Against Harvard Eleven Saturday

Cleaves, Crum and Caldwell to Complete Backfield Which Coach Roper Will Start in First "Big Three" Contest of the Year - Muddy Field Is Probable.

By George Daley.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 9 .- Willie Wingate of Arlington, N. J. will bark out the signals at quarterback when Princeton takes the field against Harvard in the stadium at Cambridge on Saturday. He can bark, too. A quarterback must have something more than arms, legs and brains. He must have a voice which carries decision and inspires confidence. Wingate has the voice.

Bill Roper made the big decision on his field general yesterday after-Johnnie Gorman, whose strategy and boldness counted so heavily in Princeton's victory over Chicago when he called for a forward pass from behind his own good line and taking the pass himself carried the ball to the center of the field, has not quite recovered from the banging he got in that struggle. He will be ready for Yale, but the meantime Roper had to make a choice for Harvard from his other candidates, and Wingate now has the call over Dinsmore, Pagenkopf and Bergen.

The coaches here think well of Gorman, but they also have great confidence in Wingate and feel that the team is in no sense weakened. The other backs for the Harvard game will be Jack Cleaves, Mart Crum and Charley Caldwell.

and Harvard Game

Special to the Post-Dispatch, CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov.

F Princeton and Harvard prove to be good mud horses Saturday there will be quite a game in the Stadium but; if the scoring of either team depends on finesse and smooth running order of its plays, there are likely to be many disappointments. Unless there is a great change in weather condi-tions and wind dries up the Sol-diers' Field gridiron, the conditions under foot are going to be very bad Saturday, probably as poor as for any game here in the last 10 years. The gridiron simply is worn out and should a frost come before Saturday conditions will be awful. Harvard, however, is going ahead as if the field would be good for the game, and is driving along on its cleverly planned plays which demand so much strategic execu-explosive to blast holes for planting fruit trees.

The Coroner returned a verdict of accidental death. Only one leg, the heaft, and several organs were found after the explosion, the Coroner said. There was no testimony to indicate how the explosive was set off. The Coroner said there apparently was a premature explosion in preparing a blast and this set off dynamite in a box nearby.

Comeback of Democrats Explained in Many Ways by Editorial Writers.

the Associated Press. LONDON, Nov. 9 .- The comeback nade by the Democrats in the Amercan elections last Tuesday is explained to British readers by their newspapers in many ways, and the speculation which the editorial writers indulge in is quite diversified Some think the pendulum merely swung back, but others interpret the voting as revealing widespread dissatisfaction with the Harding administration and many of its works, including the tariff and the enforcement of prohibition.

The Times pays tribute to the Harding administration as one which has achieved successes of which America may well be proud, "notably in its eminently skillful handling of the great international congress," at Washington last fall. That newspaper thinks that the violence with which the pendulum swung back may derange the Republican party machine and other mechanism in a way wholly undesirable and un-

The Chronicle regards the Democratic victories as quite enormous and significant and ascribes the change as partly the result of a natural swing of the pendulum, partly to the "excessive application of prohibition and partly to the dissatisfaction with the supremacy of big business interests and the tariff."

The Westminster Gazette derives om the election results the hope that the Americans are veering somewhat toward co-operation with the League of Nations and was surprised that women candidates were

The Daily News says the turnover was due "mostly perhaps to the general disgust of the electorate with the failure of the Harding administration to do anything at all. It will make the already hard task of that administration still harder."
The Dublin Freeman's Journal

says the Americans, when they were sick of Wilson and the treaty of Versailles, had to vote Republican to get rid of them, but they did not desire to be dosed with Republicanism.

The Fourth Hen Disappears

By Thornton W. Burgess

Oh this there's not the elightest doubt: A thief is bound to be found out.

Writer Tells What Really Happens After Novelty Wears Away.

ND now a young millionaire ish fancies and far-fetched dreams idealist has passed another milestone in his eventful life in plain parlance, they cannot in his eventful life taken to his mind a mental mate "get away with it." This-world-of-taken to his mind a mental mate A idealist has passed another milestone in his eventful life and taken to his mind a mental mate while his wife and baby have gone to seek solace elsewhere.

It caused a sensation when he and his soul mate parted a few months ago while his legal wife was awaiting the stork.

He explained it all in this wise: "I am searching for a better understanding of human nature and a more honest basis for human relationship. So far I think I have been

"My need now is for a mental mate, a friend, a companion. I want a comrade of the mind, an intellectual, a platonic relationship. This need I have satisfied with her who is living here and who is sharing my theories and understands this rela-

Raising her wand, the White Maiden waved it. The Indians' eyes opened, a vague wonder stole into their faces. She flung her arms to the sky, invoking strength from some source of strength. Then her arms reached out over the dying. with a movement that suggested cherishing wings; eyes were fixed upon her, the Indians slowly, feebly rose. Still her succering arms reached forth to them. Bequita herself was so charged with the sense of saving these people in their extremity, that she conveyed her meaning to her spectators as if it traveled directly from mind to mind. Only art that is great enough to be artless can rise to this height; only when the artist is so transported by his meaning that self becomes nonexistent does he reach the plane where the medium of expression becomes negligible, the direct transmission of thought seems to transcend expression.

One by one, at her gesture, the stricken Indians rose to their feet; first a child, starting at the vision. then another; men and women followed. The group stood gazing at the White Maiden as though heaven had descended to earth.

And now she flung off the spell of awe. With a swing of filmy draperies she sprang to the edge of the has been a secondary consideration.
But the average everyday persons who think they can live their lives as they please and disregard all the common usages of life as it is regulated and as is vital to the growth of the world—this is fallery. Since they can take butterfly brightness for me. When through twilight's soft gloom come the fragrance and bloom of the clover field over the way, I give thanks for all things like way. The assembly was one to her the butterfly's wings and the beauty that gladdens the day.

Instinct taught by the edge of the precipice. A moment she paused there, her eyes sweeping the audience; still no individuals detached themselves from the way, I give thanks for all things like mass. The assembly was one to her the world—this is fallery. Since the was, precisely how long to hold that tension. Her arms were extended motionless, the cloudy white floated from them. Then, with a leap as light as the tossing of water, she broke into her dance—the dance of the waterfall the dance that sparkled and frothed and tossed and tumbled and foamed and twinkled and cascaded and splintered into

To Bequita it was as though sne were not dancing at all-something within her was what danced, the soul of the waterfall which had entered her soul. She felt herself the water; she seemed to be frothing over rocks into green, deep places; to be laughing in tinkles; to be breaking on the rocks into a thousand glintings; to be tossing upward in foam. And in the midst of the sheer joy of water at play, she was conscious still of that deeper, more solemn joy: of delivering a stricken people at the brink of death. On foamed the dance. The dancer hovered on the dizzy brink of the precipice; she retreated only to spring forward again, poising on the rock that jutted over the gorge, leaping free in the air and alighting on the brink once more. She seemed as unconscious of peril as the darning needle that alighted beside her; as sure that the air would support her. Now she bent forward, covering her head with her white draperies, imitating the foaming fall; she drooped far over the steepest rocks, hung there in limp grace. Now she tossed herself erect again, and pirouetted on the ledge. She was no more conscious of technique than a waterfall itself. She was like one of the elements, swayed only by a vast den; the yellow-haired child plead-Thought. Dimly she knew this; not ing for lessons; the girl tingling with explicitly, but in some cellar of her consciousness. She knew, too, that this dance was supreme, that she had never before reached such height of beauty in her art's expression, perhaps never again would reach it.

The taut silence intensified with the minutes. In it Bequita could feel her conquest. She knew that she was dancing as these people had never seen anyone dance before, that they were strung to a pitch of dumb wonder which spelled her complete triumph. Behind her, the Indians were pressing closer; even they, her fellow-mummers, shared the astonishment and forgot feigned ment of tossing foam which released rainbow flashes, the dance reached its height and stopped abruptly. In the absolute stillness the White Maiden paused on the ledge. There was to be a long-drawn moment of suspense, then the smiting of the rock, the gushing forth of the stream, the grand finale of praises from a delivered people, the Maiden's vanishing in the forest.

She paused. Every nerve of her body was tuned to perfect pitch; she could feel to a nicety the hold she had upon that audience's tension, the instant at which she must break it with the great climax. She stood poised on the lightest tiptoe, her hand holding forth the willow wand-

She faced her spectators. The mass of blended colors met her eye-but now, for the first time, an individual figure stood out as a strong bar of light struck it. The figure seemed to Bec's eyes to detach itself from the mass until it was the only thing seen. It was standing: it was in the front row, and had stepped a trifle in advance of the others; it leaned forward intently, eyes riveted upon the dancer.

And now Bec met those eyes. Even at that distance, not a shading of their jetty glance failed to reach her. Narrowed to mere flashing lines, they seemed to Bec at that instant more terrible than she had ever dreamed they could be. At the instant when, poising on the edge of the precipice, she met them, she felt her beating heart turn to ice and go thumping down within her.

For a sick moment she struggled to recover. Her whole body was numb; her will was like her heart. merely a lump of ice, with no power left to direct her actions. She tried to drag her eyes away from those dreadful ones, and was unable to release them. She thought, flittingly. of tales of evil spells. made a dull reach forward, automatically obeying its training, and with a lifeless stroke she smote the rock, and was aware of the sudden gush of the fettered water. With a surge it leaped forward; cries of joy broke from the Indians; but still her eyes were held prisoner by those other eyes. . . She made a clumsy step backward as the water burst forth, she was loving her power of balance, overwhelmed as she was. She knew only that her step backward seemed at a loss for foothold. that it groped behind her, stumbled. In the instant when her balance wavered on the edge of the precipice when she saw, yawning like measureless space, that sheer pitch of shimy green rock below; in that instant life and death hung in the scales, and a life and death no more of the body than the spirit.

Except to rise to a standing pos-ture, Helen had been rigid since Bec's entrance. She had not felt the questioning glances that Dr. Aspden had cast toward her at this unexpected dancer's appearance; she had known nothing but the fact of that appearance. At first, as the plot had broken upon her, she had passed into rage like a trance. She had been bound by the terrible spell. Years passed before her in the minutes of Bec's performance; she saw the dancing baby in a California garart's urge; later, the woman of defiant silenes, which she had so last before her eyes, her daughter. her flesh, who had secretly defied and outwitted her, and now triumphed in her very face.

During these moments her impulse of anger was so strong that she forgot the selfishness of her motive in denying Bec a career of art. She was conscious of no definite purpose to defeat the girl; her wrath (which, in truth, was more at her scribblings of some vanished young

HEROINES OF HISTORY

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women By MARK STUYVESANT BARBARA BLAUGDONE AND HER PERSECUTORS

Quakeress as a demure woman who "spoke when spoken to" and let the men take the initiative in everything, "keeping silent in the house of God." Barbara Blaugdone is a revelation. She was the most daring and unafraid woman of the Quaker faith, according to history. The story of her eventful life of persecution and determination begins

Barbara, Blaugdone was born at Bristol, England, about 1600. She had always been the leader of her social set and was very wealthy. Beautiful clothes and luxurious sur-roundings had been her chief delight until she became a Quakeress. at 47 years of age. During the first year of her "convincement" she ab-stained from eating meat and drank nothing but water as a test of her endurance.

Imprisoned Her,

Her first persecution when she made her beliefs known was imprisonment in a vile jail in Bristol, where she was abused daily. But Barbara Blaugdone was undaunted. The minuto she was free she walked from the doors of the prison and started to preach Quakerism to the first per-son she met. On her way to meeting a few days later a man came along and thrust a knife in her side. only comment as she swooned with the pain and loss of blood was "Sir, my soul is so in love with truth that I could this day give up my life for it."

As soon as the militant Quakeress recovered from her injuries she started again on what she believed to be her mission in life. At Marlborough, where she entered a church to speak, she was struck by a man and thrown through the door. Then she was

When released at the end of six weeks of suffering Barbara Blaug-done, still determined to "do or die." started on her way again. During her wanderings she came to the home of the Earl of Bath, where during her days of wealth she had often been received. The servant who opened the door told her that the Countess was in the garden and when she arrived at the back of the house a large dog was set upon her. It is sald that the dog was stricken with an illness and went away whining.

Still Intrepid.

Disappointed and footsore, the intrepid Quakeress left the Earl's home, reaching the nearest town before nightfall. Here she was committed to a jail 20 miles away. Thrown among a band of gypsies who had been arrested for vagrancy, she taught them, and many were converted. As a result she was taken to another room and whipped severely, then turned out into the bitter cold night. That night she slept in a pig from exposure, Barbara Blaugdona, who was then 50 years old, returned to her home in Bristol. Here she lived to be the oldest of the Quaker pioneers, reaching nearly 100 years
